How the Doctrine that Changed the World Affects Conflicts Today

Resolving conflict between individuals can be daunting at times. Add to it generational trauma caused by institutionalized racial conditioning and we add a whole new level of challenges. Our conscious and unconscious biases are not necessarily random and can make it difficult to find a way out of conflict. What role does the doctrine that changed the world play in the way we manage racial conflict?

In this session we will look at:

What is the Doctrine that changed the world?

How does it affect conflict?

How might it be blocking solutions?
